

Diane Wang

Business Development Specialist

---

Diane has an extensive sales and business development background, as well as a keen interest in emotional intelligence, personal development, and life satisfaction. Being able to combine her skills and interests at MYT is a significant milestone in her career. Diane earned her Economics degree from the University of Virginia and embarked on her career in Finance as an equities Trader. However, she soon discovered her passion for meaningful human connections and the value of sharing in those experiences.

She believes that change can happen from within and that a person's quality of life can be enhanced with certain key skills and knowledge acquisition. She is dedicated to bringing the tools that MYT offers to as many individuals and organizations as possible to further drive their personal and professional success and well-being.

During her leisure time, Diane enjoys a diverse range of activities including pickleball, board games, nature, reading, and spending quality time with her friends and family. She also learned to make books recently so you can find her browsing artist books or writing in one of her own!